

Teresa Goodman works as a Principal Research Scientist in the Optical Radiation Measurement Group at the National Physical Laboratory (NPL), UK, where she leads work related to the realisation, maintenance and dissemination of scales for the measurement and characterisation of optical radiation sources, detectors and materials, and the development of measurement systems to quantify perceptual responses to light and colour. She is CIE Vice President Publications and is involved in Technical Committees across a number of Divisions, but particularly Division 2.