

Yandan Lin, Associate Professor, received Ph.D. education in both Dept. of Illuminating Engineering & Light Sources, Fudan University and Laboratory for Lighting Technology, TU-Darmstadt, Germany. She takes the positions of Chinese member for CIE Division 4 (Lighting and Signalling for Transport), Associate Director of CIE Div4, and the Vice Chairman of CIES Education and Training Committee, etc. Her research and teaching tasks mainly deal with human factors in lighting, measurement and evaluation of luminous environment, visual theory, etc., and has published over 50 technical articles in international and national leading journals. At present she is in charge of several significant research projects such as project from National Nature Science Foundation of China, project from Education Commission of Shanghai Government and lighting system projects of China Commercial Aircraft.

Contact: ydlin@fudan.edu.cn